

Problem

Consider a linked list in which each node contains a word. Give a program that receives a word sequence and two integers. A and B, and constructs and prints the new list according to the following action:

1. Exchange the initial and final elements in the linked list.
2. Reverse a sublist starting from A and ending at B.